Overview:

It is nearly impossible to get away from politics these days – our newspapers, TVs, radios, and computers are saturated with political stories. So ... let's see how well you can identify this group of politicians and government leaders, which can include senators, cabinet officials, congressmen, governors, mayors and others.

And note, in addition to their name, can you also identify their current (or most recent) office and which city or state they represent (where appropriate).
