Dad's Day

Since we're celebrating Father's Day this week, let's remember our own Dads. Looking back, what is your favorite or most vivid memory of your father (or perhaps another important male presence in your life; or your mother, if that's more appropriate)?

Also: Do you think your parents served as role models for your own parenting? In what way? Conversely, in what ways were you a different parent from your own mother and father?
